Small Groups @ Clover EPC

Clover Evangelical Presbyterian Church is starting a small groups ministry. The wonderful part of this ministry is that you can be involved with this ministry and still be involved in a home church.

Small groups meet weekly or bi-weekly at various times and locations around Clover. Each group is lead by a trained leader whose calling is to oversee the spiritual maturity of the group members. Study topics vary for each group.

What is a small group and who should be involved?

A small group is a place where people meet regularly for Bible study, prayer, friendship, and support. They are a safe place to share your life, laugh, and discuss tough questions.

We believe all Christians should be connected in a small group because that is where you connect with others. Scripture urges us to “do life” with other believers.

Why should I participate in a small group?

Relationships are at the center of the Christian life. God is alive in the heart of Clover EPC, reminding us that relationships are intrinsic to the structure of reality and foundational to the universe. The Christian life cannot and should not be lived in isolation, but in face-to-face relationships in which encouragement, accountability, and friendship are living realities.

Small groups are a place where individuals can find intimate community, practical support, and authentic spiritual interaction.

Why not take the next step?

Groups are starting in June of 2010. Contact us if you have any questions.
